Along with her love of family, this year's Extravaganza Honorary Chair Becky Schumann has two passions: Education and Arts. So it is understandable that she has been a longtime patron of Douglas Anderson School of the Arts, a school that holds a special place in her heart. "I go back more than 30 years with D.A.," says Becky. "My late husband Gert was turning 50, and we were planning a large birthday celebration with local friends and guests from his homeland in Europe. I reached out to Douglas Anderson and the school sent a vocal group called "Rhythm Junction" to perform at our celebration. The student performers were absolutely marvelous! I was so impressed with DA and the students that I ended up volunteering in their Guidance Department for the next nine years and attended Extravaganza every year.

"DA is a bit of a hidden treasure in this community," Becky continues. "So I tell people, attend an Extravaganza. You will be astonished at the talent and professionalism of these students!"
